FREE MRAA MEMBERSHIP

The Motorcycle Riders Association of Australia (MRAA) is an informal association of like-minded people. Its' aims are those of the original MRA founded in Melbourne in 1978. The MRAA stands up for the rights of road motorcycle & scooter riders. It challenges authorities whenever those rights are threatened. It advocates for road safety as a shared responsibility of all road users, for fair laws and taxes and for the media to portray riders as legitimate road users to prevent discrimination and a fair go for riders.

The MRAA is run by a dedicated team of volunteer road motorcycle and scooter riders. It has no membership fees and no employees. On March 4, 2022, MRAA had 552 members. The MRAA fights for all riders but represents its' members only. The more members a group can legitimately claim to represent, the more political muscle it has. We seek more MRAA memberships. It's free. The only information we want is a name, email address and post code. MRAA membership does not interfere with membership in any other organisation. You can unsubscribe at any time. The MRAA works to ensure all members are treated with respect and reserves the right to refuse a membership without explanation.
